THE REFERENDUM.

An Active Campaign in Its Favor Begun

A good-sized audience gathered at the rooms of the Liberal League, 177 Halsey Street, Newark, Sunday afternoon to listen to addresses on direct legislation. There were a few ladies present.

William Yuill, of Typographical Union No. 103 presided, and introduced as the first speaker, J. W. Sullivan, of Mont. clair, as the author of direct legislation-Mr. Sullivan's subject was "Initiative and Referendum.? The importance of direct legislation, he said, was not as much appreciated as it should be, but the people were being aroused to its value, in fact, its imperative necessity. The subject is no new one, Mr. Sullivan continued, only it has not attracted in former times that widespread attention that is being devoted to it now.

"The time has come," said the speaker, "when something must be done to stay the present condition of affairs, legislative and otherwise. Then what is to be done? In direct legislation is our only remedy. People are inclined to regard this country as an ideal republic, but I can tell you it is far from it as yet. Strange as it may seem to say it, the little republic of Switzerland is head and shoulders in advance of us. There direct legislation in its most per fect state, and that is au ideal one, exists.

"Since 1848 Switzerland has been ruled by direct legislation, and its people are contented and happy far beyond the average mortal. There the issues in every campaign are so clearly defined that he who runs might comprehend, while here everything is confusion and the real issues are lost sight of. Direct legislation is responsible for the state of affairs in Switzerland. There party is not first and measures left to bring up the rear, as is the case in our seopen for a general discussion of any may propose through the initiative. to the nature and effects of sicobolic is not centralized, but localized. work so far accomplished, and told what had yet to be done to reach the goal of direct legislation. Much, he said, had been done. A State league has been formed and the members were unremitting in their work for the cause.

The league had bought and distributed several hundred books pertaining to direct legislation, and already the good results were to be seen in the recruits

The labor troubles that are agitating the country were referred to by Mr.

Cotter, who wrote: "The labor of this country is seeking what it believes to be justice, and which it believes is denied to it by capital and refused to be given by the Legislatures at the dictation of capital. Upon the other hand, corporations, which are a mere aggregation of other citizens of this country, say that justice is denied them unless armed troops, making a show, of if not ready to do violence; are called out by the violate the law anarchists, forget that it is greater anarchy to violate or exceed the law by constituted authorities, be they political or judicial, than by those who, being uneducated the law, do the acts of which they complain because of their want of knowledge and inability to battle for their rights.

"Each claims to be seeking justice. The virtue of justice consist in moderation, as regulated by wisdom. We believe that in 'direct legislation' will be found the means to obtain justice for all men, or else our proud claim that we are a republic founded upon the will of the majority is but an empty boast and the people are unfit to govern them-

Joseph R. Buchanan of Roseville, editor of the American Press Association. delivered an interesting address, in which be alluded to the great strike and the condition of the country to-day. He expressed the conviction that direct legislation might have obviated much of the troubles, and said that direct legislation would come, but that it must be valiantly fought for. Its adherents cannot afford to go to sleep, he said, lest its enemies, over-vigilant, might deal

No words of mine can describe the terrible pains and distress I have experienced the dizziness, trembling fears of evil, chills, lever, melancholy, restlessness, and numerous other dreadful sensations which I am unable to lescribe. Have been treated by fifteen physicians, some of whom were sure they ould cure 'me within two or three months, and all of whom have had from two months to three, four, or more, as they said was needed. One I tried for a whole year, until last May I found myself disappointed, discouraged, and about to give-up altogether, as after treating me for a year my physician told me I would be obliged to undergo a surgical operation before I could commence to get better. Just at this time I was advised by f. lends to consult Dr. Starkweather of No. 105 Halsey Street, as they knew of some very remarkable cures which he

I followed their advice and visited the doctor on May 5th. How glad I am that I took this step no one can realize who has not been similarly situated. The The Rev. F. J.
